Orion Run Safety Re-route (see map)

Purpose and Need: The current Orion run merges with the Aquarius run about mid way down Mill Valley. These two runs then quickly merge with the Gemini run. This creates a high speed, high traffic zone all occurring on the last face of Aquarius run, resulting in an unsafe congested area entering into the lift loading area of Mill Valley. A solution was designed this winter to make this area safer by re-routing the Orion run through Pegasus Gulch area. This would allow the Orion run to merge with the Aquarius run just above the lift loading area eliminate the last face congestion.

The summer ground work would involve .5 acres of rock blasting in Pegasus Gulch to flatten the larger rocks that the grooming machines can not currently travel over. .5 acres of ten to twenty trees of 8-15" DBH would need to be removed where the two trails merge. The pick point proposed above would also be an important element to successfully groom this area. Pegasus Gulch is made up mainly of broken talus rock with little vegetation. There are no water drainages through this area so wetland or riparian disturbance would not occur.
